Your recent re-application for employment with this Agency has been given careful consideration. We have again reviewed every possibility of a suitable opening and find there has been no change in the situation since our letter to you of 31 August 1949 stating that we had no suitable vacancy to which you could be assigned.

We will continue to keep your application on record for consideration should something suitable occur at any time in the future. Meanwhile we appreciate your continued interest and regret that a more favorable reply cannot be made at this time.

Sincerely,
